Fourth Annual Dinner Given Last Night at Freund's.

PRESIDENT POWELL AS TOASTMASTER

Addresses in Review of History of the Organization.

LIST OF THOSE PRESENT

Half a hundred members of the Washington Light Infantry Veteran Association gathered around a gaily decorated banquet table last night and with a number of friends and distinguished guests discussed happy and interesting incidents of the past. It was the fourth annual dinner of the association and was set at Freund's, 815 10th street northwest.

The Washington Light Infantry has been making history in the nation's capital since 1836, and discussion and recital of the career of the famous military organization is always of interest to its members and admirers. Last evening the speakers dwelt upon memories of bygone days and referred in tenderest terms to the death of old comrades, all especially referring to the loss of Major William G. Moore, who had been connected with the infantry many years prior to his recent demise.

After the banquet had been served, Captain J. Tyler Powell, president of the association and toastmaster, rapped for order and announced the beginning of one of the pleasing features of the occasion—the speechmaking. Captain Powell gave, by way of introduction, a succinct history of the old Light Infantry, and of the organization four years ago of the yeteran association four years ago of the yeteran association four years ago of the veteran associa-tion of that organization. The Washington Light Infantry, as intimated above, was organized in 1836, making its first public appearance September 12 of that year, the appearance september 12 of that year, the occasion being a reception tendered the military companies of Baltimore, which had journeyed to Washington in celebration of the battle of North Point. The Baltimore militia had always celebrated on this date militia had always celebrated on this date and upon this occasion had visited Washington to inaugurate travel over the railroad between the two cities which had just been completed. The Infantry was organized primarily for the purpose of meeting and escorting the visiting soldiers. The formation was of course made in a hurry. The organization paraded, however, with thirty-six muskets in line.

Becomes Permanent.

The company became permanent after this, and the Infantry has participated in every inaugural ceremony since the year of its formation. It has had a part in the military celebrations of all the notable vents in the history of the District of Columbia since that time, and has always held a foremost place in the military affairs of

The first speaker was Capt. Allison Nailor, jr. He told of his youthful admiration for the old Infantry organization and of his pride in belonging to the battalion at the present time. Capt. Nailor spoke of the days when James Y. Davis was president and Andrew Joyce a lieutenant in the dent and Andrew Joyce a neutenant in the infantry, closing by saying that he always felt proud to don the white uniform of the organization and march with it.

Mr. Harrison Dingman was next called upon. Mr. Dingman spoke more especially of the formation of the veteran association, saying that a few members of the old Insaying that the saying that fantry interested in its welfare concluded to attempt the organization. In the course f the discussion of its four years' history the took occasion to pay a high tribute to the faithful service and untiring efforts of Secretary A. G. White, concluding by preenting that official with a handsome Amer-can flag, made of silk. Appropriately lettered streamers were attached. The presen-tation was in the nature of a surprise, and created a vast deal of cuthusiasm, Dr. White being loudly cheered. He thanked his comrades and assured them of his deep

Tribute to Late Commander.

Col. M. Emmet Urell of the National Guard, and major of the 1st regiment of District Volunteer Infantry, was introduced as "the hero of two wars," and was warmly applauded. Col. Urell declared he was not a hero; that there were too many heroes of the Spanish war already; he was simply a volunteer and nothing more. His first acquaintance in the Washington Light Infantry, he said, was with Col. William G. Moore, to whom he paid a pretty tribute. "No organization stands higher in th District or in the places it has visited than the Infantry." declared Colonel Urell. "It was my good fortune to be with the organization on the occasion of its visit to New York during the Grant memorial dedication services. I shall never forget the cheering that burst from the crowd even on this solemn occasion, evoked by the manly appearance of these District militiamen. Colonel Moore was at their head. I have seen the W. L. I. men in camp and on the march, and have never beheld a finer set of men. They were and are al-ways ready to perform a soldier's duty." ways reasy to perform a soldier's duty."

Colonel Urell praised the Infantry battalion as it turned out when ordered into camp at Soldiers' Home during the first days of the war of 1898. He thought it a deep pity that such a fine body of soldiers could not be taken into the service as a whole. No heter hattalion was in order. whole. No better battalion was in exist-ence at that time. He spoke briefly of the service of the District regiment in Cuba, saying the regiment had the best of officers and the best of men to back those officers Without a Word of Complaint.

The men endured their hardships without complaint, he said. "They would have lived on dog or tarantula before uttering one word of complaint," declared the speaker

Colonel Urell said he was always ready o respond to his country's call, no matter what time it might come.
Captain Powell announced that the Infantry had two representatives at present in the war service—Major Coffin in Manila and Lieutenant Harry Lee of the marine corps at Mare Island navy yard.

Brief but eloquent remarks were made by Lieutenant George Evans of the National Rifles, W. La Rue Thomas, past grand master of the Knights Templar of the United States; Thomas S. Hopkins, past commander of the Department of the Potomas G. A. R. General A. C. Howley and mac, G. A. R.; General A. C. Hawley and Frank H. Thomas, the last named potentate of Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine. Captain L. B. Cutler recited a humorous selection on "The Blue and the Gray."

The evening was brought to a close with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," all stand-

HEIGHT OF BUILDINGS.

Commissioners Asked to Construe an Act of Congress.

The District Commissioners recently received an inquiry from W. B. Holtzclaw as to the construction to be placed on the act of Congress for the regulation of the height of buildings in the District. Mr.

Holtzclaw asked whether the act serves to repeal section 77 of the building regula-

Beach, the Engineer Commissioner, Mr.

Holtzclaw has been informed that the section of the building regulations to which he referred is construed by the Commissioners to refer to the height of walls above the ground for the purpose of determining their thickness, while section six of the act of March 1, 1830, regulates the height of buildings with reference to light, ventilation and adjoining properties. The Commissioners are of the opinion that the two do not conflict.

Edgewood to Be Sold.

"Edgewood," the historic home of Mrs.

Kate Chase Sprague, and the residence of the late Chief Justice Chase, will be put under the hammer Tuesday next and sold to the highest bidder to satisfy claims against the property amounting to $90,000.

"Edgewood," with its famous old mansion, is located just south of the Catholic University, and is one of the handsomest country seats in the District of Columbia. The property was sold a few years ago and bid in by the Washington Loan and Trust Com-pany. Friends of the late Judge Chase and his daughter made up a sufficient amount and bought the property back, guaranteeing as trustees to carry it for three years. Mrs. Sprague has made several unsuccessful efforts to repay the trustees. It is be-lieved that between $125,000 and $150,000 can be secured. Any surplus will be held in trust for Mrs. Sprague.

Entertained by Her Friends.

events in the history of the District of Columbia since that time, and has always held a foremost place in the military affairs of Washington.

Company A of the Washington Light Infantry Battalion had the distinction of being the first organization of any kind mustered into the United States service in the civil war. The company enlisted for the three months' service, April 19, 1861. A number of other companies were mustered in the same date, but Company A had the advantage by several hours. Upon the completion of their first term of service a great majority of the members of the company re-enlisted and afterward rose to ranks of distinction in the regular army.

The W. L. I. Veteran Association was organized in February, 1895, and annually celebrates the 12th of May, that being the anniversary of the reorganization of the Infantry after the war—May 12, 1871. The officers of the veteran association are: J. Tyler Powell, president: William C. Keech, vice president: A. G. White, secretary, J. E. Keefe, treasurer; J. Tyler Powell, "97, and William A. Linton, '98, past presiderts.

Mr. Guy V. Collins was first introduced and entertained the diners with a number of anecdotes and comic stories.

A recess was taken, and when the convention again met canon 13 was completed and canon 14, providing for the establishment of an ecclesiastical court, was taken up. After considerable discussion Bishop Satterlee addressed the convention and suggested a few changes in the canons, which were approved and the canons were adopted by a vote of orders.

Bishop Satterlee nominated a board of precentors, as provided for in the new changes, consisting of five members, who were confirmed by the convention, as follows: Rev. Thomas J. Packard, Rev. R. P. Williams, Rev. J. W. Clarke, Mr. W. D. Baldwin and Mr. Lowndes. Real estate which had been conveyed to the diocese of Washington by Mr. Waggaman and Miss Mann on conditions was reconveyed to the original owners after explanations had been made by the bishop and Mr. George Truesdell.

By vote of the convention it was decided that where an alternate qualifies the delegation shall not be entitled to his seat. The chair appointed a committee on current work, to consist as follows: Drs. La Roche, De Vries, Waller and Pellew and Mr. Baldwin.

The convention decided to hold next year's and John B. Chambers, white, whom he found on the road near Benning, and held them at the ninth precinct station as suspicious characters. An additional charge of carrying a revolver was preferred against Tensley, from whom the officer took a big weapon.

There had been a row in the freight yard near Benning, in which a freight conductor and tramps participated, and two shots were fired. When the officer heard the reports of the shots he started to make an investigation. He was unable to find the conductor at whom he was told the shots had been fired, but he did succeed in arresting the men mentioned. There were two empty chambers in the weapon, but Tensley denied that he had shot at any-body. His statement was that he had just reached Benning on a freight train, and he said he belonged in Philadelphia. Chambers told the officer that he has a home in Haverhill. Mass. At this season of the year when country people come to market during the early morning hours trouble is usually experienced on the roads on account of the work of highwaymen, and for this reason the officer was commended by the citizens of Benning for making this arrest.

In Judge Kimball's court this morning the defendants said they met in Philadelphia and came nere on a freight train after visiting Albany and New York.
"My home is in Baltimore," the colored man said, "but I was in Philadelphia."
"Were you ever in jail in Baltimore?"
"You eir." and came here on a freight train after vis-

"Yes, sir. "For what?" "Shooting crap."
"And so they shoot crap in Baltimore, too," the court remarked.

Tensley's sentence was ninety days in jail without fine, and Chambers was given ten days on the farm.
